Medical Secretary Training Program

MEDICAL SECRETARY TRAINING PROGRAM

A JOINT PROJECT OF CHINESE AMERICAN CIVIC ASSOCIATION AND NEW ENGLAND MEDICAL CENTER

SUMMARY DESCRIPTION

The Chinese American Civic Association (CACA) and the New England Medical Center (NEMC) will jointly pilot an intensive daytime higher-level occupational skills training program. This pilot program will prepare 10 prequalified participants to enter the workforce as medical secretaries.

The program will address (1) the employment needs of NEMC, (2) the need for training programs in the Asian community, and (3) the needs of Asians in the community who wish to strengthen their office skills, language skills, and knowledge of medical terms in order to qualify for employment as NEMC medical secretaries.

The pilot program will consist of the following activities: recruitment and orientation of potential participants; assessment, selection, and intake of 10 prequalified participants; 26 weeks of intensive job-specific classroom instruction (20 hrs. wk) in office skills, communication skills, and medical terminology; internships, mentorships, and job/office simulations.

To avoid duplication of efforts, existing NEMC courses such as Medical Terminology, Medical Records, Telephone Skills, and Wordperfect will be integrated in the program design to the extent that timetables are compatible and goals align.

An active Advisory Board comprised of representatives from NEMC and CACA will oversee the program and monitor it closely.

Notes from Minority Construction Contracting Meeting

New England Medical Center

Meeting to Discuss

Minority Construction Contracting

January 30, 1992

In attendance: May Chan, Frank Chin, William Moy, Chau Ming Lee, Mary Soo Hoo, Yon Lee, Van-Lan Truong, Reggie Wong, Michael Barr, Bob Bland, Anne Levine, Fred Lynch, Al Tiberi

1. Anne Levine gave a brief introduction on the purpose of the meeting. The meeting, with representatives from the Chinatown Neighborhood Council, the Mayor's office, New England Medical Center, NEMC Real Estate, and Barr and Barr Construction, was organized to discuss strategies for increasing the number of employment opportunities for Asian contractors and to create more training opportunities through apprenticeship programs.
2. Bill Moy added that this issue is a major concern of both the Neighborhood Council and the BRA Board and that we will be requested to report back to both.
3. Chau Ming Lee reported that CACA has been participating in an apprenticeship program with the unions, and that 60 Asians have completed the program in the last three years. It is called the Building Opportunities Program (BOP) and classes are held at Roxbury Community College. Twenty percent of the graduates from the CACA program have found apprenticeship placements, the majority with subcontractors involved in the MWRA projects.

The unions have agreed that with every 5 new jobs, one apprenticeship slot can be filled. Chau Ming has been working with Wesley Lee, the Asian coordinator who works for Joe Nigro.
4. Michael Barr said that he has contacted a number of the unions and that he is committed to working with the unions, with subcontractors, and with representatives of Chinatown to help increase apprenticeship opportunities for Asians.

Michael said he also chairs a Contractors Policy Committee which could provide a platform for heightening awareness of this issue. In terms of full-time employment, Michael said that for construction projects in the City of Boston, it is essential that the jobs be unionized.

5. Another issue Michael Barr discussed relates to minority subcontractors. He offered to work with any interested Asian firms to assist them in completing prequalification statements. In response to a question, Michael said that small Asian firms can become unionized if they meet the salary and wage standards. However, unionized firms are not permitted to also perform non-union labor.
6. Fred Lynch said that in terms of bidding, we receive sealed bids which are opened in our presence. It is the owner's decision to possibly accept a higher priced bid if the subcontractor is minority.
7. There was additional discussion about summer jobs, Protec and other employment and training initiatives that are underway at the Medical Center.
8. The committee identified the following next steps:
 - A. Chau Ming Lee will send Michael Barr a list of individuals who have graduated from the apprenticeship program. The address is: Barr and Barr Construction
77 Summer Street, 5th Floor
Boston, MA 02110
 - B. Chau Ming Lee will send Michael Barr a list of co-op students from Northeastern and Wentworth who are preparing for jobs in the construction trades.
 - C. Anne Levine will compile and distribute more information on the summer jobs program to this committee. Mary Soo Hoo and May Chan expressed a particular interest in receiving this information.
 - D. NEMC Real Estate (Bob Bland and Fred Lynch) and Barr and Barr (Michael Barr and Al Tiberi) will review options for sponsoring apprentices from the CACA/BOP training program.

Description of Community Hospital Unit

DRAFT

Community Hospital Unit

Prior to the development of the 1990-2000 Master Plan, the concept of developing the Community Hospital Unit within NEMCH began to take shape. The concept, while not fully planned, was to create a Unit at NEMCH that would provide access to community physicians for their patients who required inpatient hospitalization but did not require specialty-oriented care. Given the serious overcrowding and generally high occupancy rate of the adult medicine inpatient service at NEMCH, community physicians often have difficulty obtaining admission for their patients and there is also insufficient capacity to enable these physicians to participate directly in the management of their hospitalized patients. The Community Hospital Unit is intended to remedy this situation and increase the ability of community physicians to relate to the NEMCH inpatient system. As originally conceived, this Unit would be available to qualified community-based physicians who work in the various neighborhoods of Boston that relate to NEMCH (e.g. Chinatown, South Boston, North and South Dorchester, etc.).

Since this Unit is intended to relate, in part, to the Chinatown community, it is mentioned and briefly described in the Master Plan document. Within the Master Plan, the Community Hospital Unit is referred to in the South Cove Community Health Center benefit list since it relates to health care. While it is believed that this Community Hospital Unit will benefit the Chinatown Community, it is intended to serve a broader geographic area in order to utilize the service appropriately and fully.

In that context, it is recognized that Chinatown residents, through South Cove Health Center, will be one of the populations using the Unit. A planning process, through the Chinatown Neighborhood Council, has been initiated to assure that issues related to Chinatown residents are addressed. These issues will include: language, cultural sensitivity, bi-cultural staffing, admitting privileges, relationships with South Cove Health Center, patient access, and other issues identified through this collaborative planning process. While this Unit will serve a geographic area broader than Chinatown, the special needs and concerns of Chinatown residents are clearly recognized as unique and the planning process with the Council reflects that recognition. Other communities will have input in the planning, but none to the extent of Chinatown.
